ABN 99 043 289 493

Expression of Interest (EOI)

Executive Committee Member (ex-officio)

Overview

The Interventional Radiology Society of Australasia (IRSA) is a clinician-led member organisation established to pursue the charitable purposes of advancing health through the speciality of interventional radiology, and principally, to promote the prevention and treatment of diseases in humans through interventional radiology.

IRSA is governed by the Committee of Management of the Association ('the Committee'). The Committee includes the IRSA office-bearers, who are referred to collectively as 'the Executive'. The Committee and its Executive have responsibility for, and oversight of, the core objectives of IRSA.

The Position

This role is responsible for acting as an affiliate to the executive. Each position will be allocated a portfolio. The allocated portfolio for the role is to be determined depending on the successful applicant's area of interest and expertise – allowing IRSA to identify your strengths and work with you to provide resources and structure to help move that area of IR forward. Examples of portfolios include research, advocacy, government liaison, education, member communications and benefits etc.

The positions are appointed roles and do not have voting rights on executive matters. You can attend quarterly Committee Meetings. Further information on the Committee can be found in the Executive Committee Terms of Reference attached.

For a full position description see document attached.

Application Process

Applications for appointed members of the Committee must be submitted to the IRSA Executive Officer on the EOI Form below, accompanied by a copy of the applicant's CV.

Appointments will be made by the Executive of the Committee. Applicants will be advised of the outcome of their application in writing, no later than six weeks after submission.
